By Are We There Yet

Gustave was horrible, but breathlessly sexy. He oozed liquid charm. Vivienne hated him, then loved him.

After Gustave stole her heart, he cheated on Vivienne with her best friend, so Vivienne announced on television that he had pubic lice and left him. Vivienne then married her sweetheart, Jeremiah, who while patiently waiting for Vivienne, ran a wildly successful publishing company and spent his time off building free luxury housing for the poor.

Gustave redeemed himself by cleaning school toilets for free with a toothbrush as a public service, so Vivienne decided to marry him as well, and everyone lived happily ever after.
